Lunenbourg, Auguſt 18, N. S.

ON the 11th Inſtant, at Nine in the Morning, his Majeſty ſet out from Herrenhauſen, and about Noon arrived at Lintzbourg, formerly a Hunting-Seat; from whence he went to ſee his fine Horſes in that Neighbourhood, and in the Evening arrived at Hoye. The 12th his Majeſty ſet out from thence at Eight in the Morning for Stade, where he arrived at Four in the Afternoon. All the Guns on the Ramparts were fired, and the Inhabitants were under Arms, the Bells were ringing, and all poſſible Demonſtrations of Joy ſhewn. The 13th, at Nine in the Morning, the King left Stade, and arrived at Three in the Afternoon at Harbourg, and was received there in the ſame Manner as at Stade. The 14th in the Afternoon his Majeſty was pleaſed to take a View of the River Elbe, in a Pleaſure-Boat; but the Wind growing very high, and the Weather rainy, he was obliged to return to Harbourg, after having been at Wilhelmsbourg. At Night Lieutenant Colonel Bruggeman played off a very fine Firework, for his Majeſty's Entertainment. The 15th his Majeſty left Harbourg at Eight in the Morning, and at One a-Clock arrived at Lunenbourg. The Guns were fired from the Ramparts and the Caſtle, and the Inhabitants were under Arms: There were likewiſe two triumphal Arches erected, and a general Joy was ſhewn throughout this City. At Night all the Streets were illuminated, as they were alſo the two following Nights. On the 16th early in the Morning, the Deputy-Governor, Treaſurer, and whole Body of Engliſh Merchants Adventurers, reſiding at Hambourg, were introduced to His Majeſty by the Rt. Hon. the Lord Viſcount Townſhend, and preſented the following Addreſs,

To the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty,

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt faithful and loyal Subjects the Merchants Adventurers of England reſiding in Hambourg, humbly beg Leave to lay ourſelves at your Majeſty's Feet, to congratulate you on your Arrival in theſe your Dominions, and to implore the Continuance of your Royal Favour and Protection.

The Exportation of the Woollen Manufactures of England, with which your faithful and loyal Company have been long intruſted, hath been attended with thoſe conſiderable Advantages to our Nation, that the ſucceſſive Princes of Great Britain have been pleaſed to diſtinguiſh our Society by Grants of particular Privileges, which have been continued to us for above Three Hundred Years by the Favour of your Royal Predeceſſors.

It is with great Pleaſure that we reflect on a long Race of Kings who have been our Patrons; and we think it our greateſt Happineſs, that we are at preſent under the Protection of a Monarch of known Juſtice and Goodneſs, and who hath ſo much at Heart the Preſervation of the Liberties, and the Trade of his Kingdoms.

May God long preſerve your Sacred Majeſty, together with the beſt of Queens, His Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales, and all your moſt illuſtrious Family, which gives us a large Proſpect of the ſame Bleſſings being conveyed down to our lateſt Poſterity.

To which Addreſs His Majeſty was pleaſed to return the following moſt gracious Anſwer.

Gentlemen,

I Thank you for this Inſtance of your Duty and Affection: You may always depend upon my Protection and Countenance.

His Majeſty was alſo pleaſed to confer the Honour of Knighthood upon John Emmerſon, Eſq; their Deputy-Governour.

About Nine His Majeſty proceeded to the Review of His Troops aſſembled near this Place, conſiſting of Ten Squadrons, and Eight Batallions; His Majeſty rode from the Right to the Left of the Line, and afterwards went to a magnificent Tent which was there prepared, pared, and the Horſe firſt paſſed by His Majeſty by Fours, and the Foot by Sub-Diviſions. After which the Horſe diſmounted and marched by His Majeſty on Foot. The Troops made a very fine Appearance, and the whole of this Day's Review was concluded by a Feu de Joye. About Nine the ſame Evening the People employed in the Salt Works of this City, all cloathed in White, and each carrying a Branch of Candles in his Hand, walked up to the Palace in Proceſſion, and ranged themſelves in a Circle under the Window, where the King ſtood to obſerve them. Several Inſtruments of Muſick were placed in the Centre, and in this Manner they continued for ſome Time, ſinging, and making loud Acclamations. Yeſterday the King reviewed the whole Body of Horſe and Dragoons, and ſaw them perform their Exerciſe, firſt on Horſeback; they then diſmounted, and went through the other Parts of it, by Firing in Files, in Platoons, in Ranks, and in Diviſions; this done they remounted, drew up in two Lines, and charged each other on Horſeback ſeveral Times with the greateſt Dexterity and Exactneſs. This Day His Majeſty will review four Regiments of His Infantry, and the reſt of them To-morrow, and on the 20th His Majeſty propoſes to ſet out for the Ghorde, and to dine there that Day.
